

Right, daguerreotype of Joseph Smith from which C. W. Carter made "retouched photographs" of the Mormon leader. LDS Church Information Service. Left, painting believed to be by Majors belongs to the Reorganized LDS Church. A copy of the painting was given to the National Portrait Gallery in November 1971.

Gary Kapp's "Joseph Smith," above, is part of the art exhibit held in connection with the Utah Pageant of the Arts. Right, before the pageant starts, patrons enjoy "First Prize," a sculpture by Jerry Anderson, and other works of art.